THIS TIME
TOMORROW

The Evening

A private evening at Dar Al Dall, for two. Guests are met in the Medina and walked to the door; the house is opened and explained; dinner follows.

One table an evening — the only one we open to guests not staying with us. An introduction to the house, with dinner at the end of it.

Marrakech · 2,800 MAD for two · 2.5–3 hours
One couple per evening · 24-hour reservation

Dar Al Dall

THE HOUSE

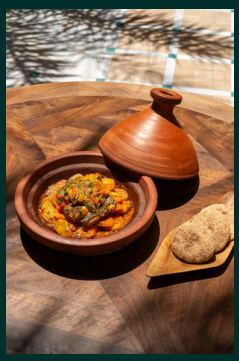

A riad in the Medina, five minutes on foot from the meeting point. Arrival is a welcome drink in the Bhou, facing the courtyard.

Then a private walk through the house — its architecture, its design, and the philosophy of This Time Tomorrow.

One table is opened for the evening — set in the Living Room, the Ground Floor Dining Room, or on the rooftop. A Gnawa duo closes the night.

Our Kitchen

AT THE TABLE

Four courses from our Mediterranean and Levantine kitchen — three salads, an appetiser, a main and a dessert, with batbot baked in the house. Morocco at the centre; Türkiye, Lebanon and Tunisia never far.

Our chef. Zakia Rabbaa, recently interviewed by Supper on preserving Morocco's food heritage.

READ THE INTERVIEW

The menu. Set and seasonal — no à la carte, no substitutions. The same menu we cook for the guests staying in the house.

An example evening. Courgette, Amande. Zaalouk de Chou-Fleur. Lentille, Carotte. Occe. Seffa. Gâteau à l'orange.

Allergies. Please share them at the time of booking.

The Reservation

Twenty-four hours' notice. Two to three evenings a week, one couple each, subject to the house.
Please note that we do not hold an alcohol licence.

Discover the story. Experience the house. Stay for dinner.

thistimetomorrow.io